BUSANSKY STUDENT RECOGNIZED BY BURLINGTON CO. EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Samuel T. Busansky Elementary School fifth-grade student Jase Olmstead was recently selected as the Burlington County Education Association's Student of the Month for December, and was recognized by the organization on January 27th.

"I have had the privilege as a specialist to be Jase's teacher for the last six years," wrote Crystal Gardiner, an innovation lab teacher at Busansky, in her nomination submission. "Over the course of these years, I have watched him grow into a remarkable young man. He is a true role model for all of the students in our school."

He was awarded a certificate by BCEA president Anthony Rizzo and honored with his parents in attendance. Olmstead was the first student from Pemberton Township Schools to ever be recognized by the county's organization.

"I love to have any opportunity to have a student recognized," principal Keith Swaney said. "We were able to recognize a student who is not only academically strong, but is also a role model for his peers." Congratulations, Jase!
